

A Nation Divided: A Response to Jesse Jackson

By J.J. Johnson - Posted: 12.12.00

Thank you, Jesse for finally showing your hand and showing your true colors (no pun intended). But, before you play the last trump card of the typical socialist (i.e. violence), it's time to lay our cards on the table. You claim there will be a 'civil rights explosion.' Take to the streets, sir, and you might find a different kind of resistance against you.

To Jesse and his minions, this is no surprise; only that no democratic leader has disavowed your comments yet. In fact, we predicted you would take this route -as the last desperate act of a tyrant. You'll find a bunch of conservative commentaries to your threats, and you'll get plenty of face time to preach your sedition. But most would not dare say what needs to be said to you and your ilk, in fear of being labeled some evil stereotype. This of course, doesn't apply to me. So I'll say it for all of us.

Go ahead - make our day.

To us, Mr. Jackson, it isn't about skin color. It's not even about George W. Bush. It's about the Constitution and the Rule of Law. That is what your side has sought to destroy. And before you throw the first punch, perhaps you should take a look at what your side as done to our side over the past few years.

One of the reasons your 'Massa' Gore lost is because he lost every state of the Old Confederacy (including Florida). Some of these states were usually democratic strong holds - until now. Here's why: Southerners are fed up with your minions attacking, slandering, and even causing damage to our ancestors, our history, and the symbols thereof. In your arrogance, you never thought there would be a backlash. You never thought about how many people you were insulting. You never considered, with your stupid boycotts and protests, how many black people were affected.

You see, that flag you hate wasn't about slavery. It was about state's rights. You call that a code phrase for racism. But you don't criticize Gore's lawyers for using a state's rights argument before the courts these days. Remember this about the Ol' South: Tallahassee was the one state Capitol the Yankees never occupied. We call this "Just Desserts."

Next, the West. We're watching now as your 'boy' Clinton is on a rampage to steal as much land as he possibly can from us. He's been doing that for 8 years. Our goal is to put a stop this. We know your guy has even worse plans for Westerners. Hence - he lost the West as well.

Those are just two reasons. There's also hate crimes, affirmative action, quotas, abuse of power, gun control and a host of issues that our side finds insulting. We are tired of having free speech dictated to us by you. We are tired of being called names just for believing in something. Businessmen are tired of being extorted by you. Taxpayers are tired of supporting you. And America is tired of listening to you.

Please do not consider yourself a "Civil Rights" leader. If Martin Luther King, Jr. were alive today, I submit that he would have been the first to speak out against your actions. You, Jesse Jackson are leading what many considered a noble Civil Rights Movement into the sewer, and the actions of your ilk only make race relations worse. You seem to have no problem using people as weapons against others. You insist on waging class warfare - but you've never had an 'exit strategy'. Perhaps this is why you simply can't just go away.

And no, I'm not just referring to black people, either. There are just as many narrow-minded whites, and illegal immigrants who'll rally around you - or march to your orders.

But this time, it'll be different. Your opposition no longer fears your threats. In fact, you were probably talking so loud you didn't hear gun safeties being released around the country after your words were spoken. You, Mr. Jackson, and those who support you have become predictable. Your propaganda has become intolerable.

Rather than fearing you will "take to the streets", we're banking on it. Yes, go protest in front of the federal buildings. Close them down for all we care. If you want to burn down your own neighborhoods, we'll give you the matches. If you want to burn down the cities, we only ask that you give us time to buy marshmallows. Since your fellow actors will be leaving the country soon, we'll need something to entertain ourselves. Watching those Blue areas erupt in a "civil right's explosion" beats watching Oprah and Rosie any day.

A word to the wise: Don't take your anarchy to those Red Areas. There are some just waiting for a chance to deal with such insanity - directly. And don't think making enough trouble to force Clinton to call in the military will work either. Most of them didn't vote for Gore.

And after you're done yelling, screaming "burn, baby, burn", don't ask us for one "red" dime to rebuild anything. Don't ask us to "be tolerant." Don't ask us to "be compassionate" about the whole thing. We don't need any more "sensitivity training." With any luck, you'll riot, get thrown in jail, and we won't have to worry about your followers being too stupid to read a ballot anymore - since they'll lose the right to vote. And if you decide to take your wrath out on Bush supporters, you'll end up with less supporters - period.

The smarter among you would be better off helping those rich Hollywood freaks pack their bags. Seeing the left take it to the streets will just motivate all those truckers not to deliver ANYTHING to those Blue Areas, and the rest of us of to just stay home and watch - locked and loaded. And finally - on a personal note to Mr. Jesse Jackson: You say you will never accept Bush being your President? Not a problem. I've never accepted you as my leader, either.
